

happily ever after

It was a fairytale wedding, complete with pixies and brownies. STORY NICOLETTE ONG

Doreen Teo and Tong Sau Loon had a party just for close friends the day after their traditional wedding banquet. "We wanted to spend some fun time with our pals away from a formal banquet setting," says Doreen.

The party was held at Poppi at The Legends Fort Canning Park. The club was done up in hues of coral orange, browns and rich mustard to match a country fairytale theme. To create the right ambience, wedding planner Hannah Chong from Heaven's Gift created wild-looking blooms for the backdrop. She also had flower pots, fake dragonflies and hanging floral arrangements throughout the restaurant. Tables were named after pixies, brownies and fairies. Doreen made Belgian chocolates packed in pretty bottles as favours for guests. "The whole decor was like a wedding that popped out from those European wedding magazines," adds Doreen.

But it was the "memory lane" Hannah created that touched the couple most. Mini galleries of photographs and mementos from their childhood, friendship, courtship and wedding celebrations lined the memory lane for the couple to walk through. "It was like a time machine brought back those wonderful moments specially for us," gushes Doreen.

Hannah played a key role organising the couple's celebrations. "She was always around to support us during those stressful times. I was a fickle and fussy bride, but her patience and abilities won me over. The wedding party set she designed was simply beautiful," says Doreen. 🍷
