

SEA OF LOVE

LENA AND PAUL ARE SINGAPOREANS WHO IRONICALLY MET AND FELL IN LOVE IN LONDON

BEFORE THE BIG DAY

Lawyers by weekdays, divers by weekends and holidays; Lena and Paul decided to celebrate their love and marriage in oceanic style. Both are diving enthusiasts, although Lena's passion for diving got several stokes when she met Paul, nevertheless, both over time have become passionate about photographing sea life.

INSPIRATIONS OF LOVE

In fact, their courtship journey had much to do with their odyssey in the oceans. So 'under the sea' became the chosen theme for the wedding. Their wedding planner Hannah Chong of Heaven's Gift suggested large fabric silk screens that depicted pictures of marine creatures that were taken during their courtship. This formed the backdrop to the wedding concept and decorations. "We had jelly fish, clown fish, pygmy sea horses, shrimps in coral as part of the settings withing the Chijmes Chapel," says Hannah. The entire Chijmes hall was lit up with effects of ocean ripples flashing across the ceiling, echoing voices from the ocean waters.

Guests had a lot of fun blowing bubbles from little dolphin bottles to welcome the couple.

THOUGHTFUL DETAILS

There was an adorable picture of Clown Fishes that became the wedding invite when coupled with tracing paper and classic ribbons. There were custom-made Baby Blue Spiral Seashell White Chocolates as wedding favours. All the music and arrangements were based on the Disney film, 'Mermaid'. And the most beautiful centerpieces in the form of live fish swimming among flowers in clear glass vases decorated the tables.
